Montana's 55 state parks are a spectacularly diverse collection of natural areas, historic sites, and fun places where visitors are welcome to hike, camp, fish, swim, boat, photograph, watch wildlife, learn, and explore. Join award-winning Great Falls Tribune reporters Erin Madison and Kristen Inbody as they visit each park and interview park managers, historians, and visitors to provide the most complete and up-to-date information about these remarkable public lands. Their unique book is packed with current information and special features, including: Key information at a glance. Best parks for camping, boating, hiking, and recreation. Best parks for history and natural wonders. Author-recommended activities. Photos, maps, and directions. Accurate information on all campgrounds, fees, and facilities. A foreword by Montana Governor Steve Bullock. A special Smith River essay by Montana novelist Maile Meloy. Perfect size for taking along on trips. The only guidebook to all the parks. Use this book to find a favorite park or take the State Park Challenge and visit all of them! Created for the 75th anniversary of Montana's state park system.
